

D3 Achieves Platinum Status, Autodesk's Highest Tier for VARs

Springfield, MO (June 5, 2018) - D3 Technologies, a leader in Autodesk manufacturing and plant solutions, announces their elevated designation as an Autodesk Platinum Tier Value-Added Reseller (VAR), with authorizations in Product Design & Manufacturing; Architecture, Engineering, and Construction.

As an Autodesk Platinum partner, D3 Technologies provides best-in-class solutions as evidenced by a high level of investment in technical expertise, customer service, sales consulting, and personnel capability. The Platinum Tier represents the pinnacle of Autodesk program achievement.

"Platinum Tier partners represent the very top level of all Autodesk VAR's in North America. And, they understand their success is only achieved through the success of their customers," said Steve Blum, senior vice president, Worldwide Field Operations, Autodesk. "D3 has proven time & again they have a deep understanding of their customers, their businesses, and how to help them reach their business goals."

"We are honored to receive this level of recognition from Autodesk," said Kevin Schlack, president of D3 Technologies. "Many thanks to our loyal customers, we are inspired by their innovations and humbled to play a small part in their quest to build successful manufacturing businesses and make great things."

D3 Technologies works closely with customers to reach their business goals and maximize their return on investment through key services that include business process analysis, workflow optimization, integration and development, as well as more fundamental services such as up-and-running support, adoption activities, training and technical support.
